Experts Who Have Watched Carpentier in Training Pick Dempsey to Win Beyond Question

SCRIBES SEE LITTLE CHANCE FOR GEORGES IN DEMPSEY BATTLE

Carpentier May Not Be Showing Best Form in Practice Sessions—Poor Crop of Sparring Partners Causes Much Criticism

> By ROBERT W. MAXWELL Sports Editor Evening Inblie Ledger

ACCORDING to lucky spectators who dodged the guards at Carpentier's training camp, the Frenchman has not shown very much in the practice sessions thus far. Nobody has been impressed with his work and the more een of him the less chance he seems to have in the coming battle with Jack Dempsey. This isn't an attempt to throw cold water on the championship Mair, but a few plain facts gathered from the scribes who have been camping around Manhasset for the last month.

One author said that Paul Journee really outboxed the Frenchman in a two-round exhibition the other day, and Georges was trying hard at the time. "Not that I think Journee can lick Carpentler." Frenchman should be immeasurably superior if he actually is aiming to knock over Dempsey and take the world's title back with him. 'It is possible that Carpentier is not showing all the stuff in the public exhibitions for the scribes. Just possible. However, I think he was doing lose to an best last Friday or he would not have lost his head when he tumbled to the floor and the photographers snapped him in a prostrate position. If he were stalling, he would have been glad to get caught that way.

That's one opinion plainly expressed by one who is in a position to know what he is talking about. Others are criticizing the challenger because of a poor crop of sparring partners. No man can get into shape without the proper preparation, and Georges is falling shy in this. He admits he will depend upon his speed and eleverness to keep away from Dempsey's bull-like rushes, but how can he develop speed against slow-moving, lead footed sparring partners? Spectators say he should get some fast middleweights and welterweights to help him out.

Dempsey is following the proper system. Now he is socking his sparring partners for round trips whenever the opportunity presents itself and his punching is improving every day. True, his aspiring partners are knocked cookoo occasionally, but that's all in the game. Dempsey is a puncher and he doing a lot of hitting. He is training along that line now, but soon will

He, too, needs speed, and instead of hiring a lot of broken-down athletes he stepped out and hired the best men in the country. Jack Kearns says that Harry Greb, Mike Gibbons and a couple of other speed merchants will join the camp soon and box with the champion every day for the last two weeks. This will give Dempsey all the speed he needs and get him on edge to do some clever boxing with the challenger.

THOSE who have an idea that the champion cannot has will be hadly fooled on July 2. Jack performed like a speedy lightweight against Miske at Benton Harbor, Mich., last Labor Day, much to the surprise of every one, and he is likely to do the same thing again.

Collins Reciprocated

LL our A's hopes of clambering out of the deep, dark, dank recesses of A the bottomiess pit were blasted, socked in the eye and otherwise maltreated vesterday when they dropped the opening tilt to Chicago's spotless remnant oy a 9-to-7 count in the tenth inning.

When you go to Shibe Park for a pleasant afternoon you get all kinds of basebail and a lot of things. Philadelphia has one thing to be proud of about the White Sox. When the big expose of the 1919 World Series came last season, and eight stars from the Sox line-up took the high dive into disgrace, the name of our fair town came out without a blot, although two players and the manager of the team are from Philadelphia. Eddie Collins hales from Lansdowne, Amos Strunk from somewhere around Lianerch and Kid Gleason claims the whole city as his hatrack. Yesterday some of the boys from the Lu Lu Temple Legion of Honor of the Mystic Shrine came out to pay a deserved tribute to Collins and also to Ray Schalk and Amos Strunk. It was coming to them. Any time a ball player reaches the heights of stardom attained by Collins, Schalk and Strunk, and is as well liked by everybody around the circuit from the fans to the umps and their fellow players, you've got to hand them the bouquet and admit they are regular guys. "Brick" Owens, of the Royal Order of Umps, called it right when he mid after the game: "You never hear a kick from those three. They play the game to win and give the best they've got all the time, with never a kick Collins got the chief honors in the way of a regular fez, tassel and all.

The presentation was made by Colonel C. P. Franklin, commander of the Legion of Honor Post of Lu Lu Temple, while about fifty members of the round on the field with fezzes to ward Collins is a vice commander of the Legion. Schalk and Strunk, not being members of the Legion, got "Mystic hats." Strunk's was blue and Schalk's pink, matching his complexion perfectly.

Before the game Collins was entertained at a Shrine Club luncheon at the Adeiphia.

Then, just to show his appreciation, all Collins did was go out and win the game from the Mackmen almost single-handed. He stepped to the plate on six occasions-walked the first time and stole; doubled the second time. scoring Faber and Johnson; singled the third time, scoring Mulligan, Johnson and Faber when "Tillie" Walker let the ball get away; sacrificed the fourth time, advancing Mulligan; went out on an infield bit the fifth time, and singled the last time up, scoring Mulligan.

But that was not all. In the second inning he raced over into short right and made a miracle stop on a smash by Perkins, holding it to an infield single; while in the eighth he grabbed Witt's clout back of second by superhuman play. Throughout the game he accepted eight chances, getting three putouts and five assists-a fair day's toil.

The break of the game that beat the Macks was Walker's error in the fourth when he let the ball get away after Collins had singled, and the htt cleaned the bases with three on. That finished Harris, and Hasty, who succeeded him, failed to last an inning, being replaced by Keefe

With the count a tie at seven-all, Rommel pitched the tenth and was

THE bright spot of the day from the A's standpoint was the fifth inning, when Johnny Walker singled and Welch and Dugan slammed home runs to the bleachers, tying the count.

Football Men Here in Session

MANAGERS of independent football teams in Philadelphia and vicinity will get together tomorrow to discuss plans for the coming season and arrange a schedule. It is planned to have representatives from Bridesburg, Holmesburg, Victrix, Vincome, Hobert, Ewing A. A., Conshohocken, Frankford and others at the meeting, and arrange everything so that the games can be played without a hitch.

Heinie Miller, the former Penn star, is behind the movement. He will attempt to draw up an agreement whereby all players signed by the clubs must stick and not jump from one team to another. This will help the game conmiderably, if it goes through. The meeting will be held in Leo Conway's ticker office, 2181/2 South

Ruth Should Have Picked Rainy Day

BABE RUTH was inserted in the Gotham hoosegow yesterday to do penance for going too fast in his twin six. The Babe had to spend a day in jail, just to show that he could enjoy himself any place. The only mistake was in selecting the day. He should have picked one when it rained. Ball players never have any place to go on rainy days.

PHILLIES FINALLY WIN

Pirates and Braves

Set Hitting Mark

Pittsburgh and Boston yesterday hung up a National League record for the number of hits in a major league game this year, when thirtysix were made. This was two more than the season's record of thirtyfour last Saturday, when the Cardinals had eighteen and the Phillies sixteen.

Two roommates, Walter Maranville, shortstop, and James Tierney, third baseman, of the Pirates, prior to today's game with Boston had gone to bat 176 times and each had made sixty-one base hits for an average of .347.

Baseball fans have their optics centered on the two torrid races in the Johnson and Heydler circuits and the situation has become so tense that both New York clubs may be in first place in their respective organizations by dightfall.

Jim Jeffries Won From Fitzsimmons in Eleventh Round

Only a little more than two years were given to Bob Fitzsimmons to which to enjoy the glamor and the gold that accompany a heavyweight championship. The honor was knocked from his sturdy shoulders by James J. Jef-fries on June 9, 1899, at Coney Island. Jeffries had graduated from a boilermaking establishment into the roper quare with two rugged fists that pound ed Fitz-immons into submission in cleven rounds and which enabled the new champion to stick at the head of the fistic procession for many years. The challenger of Fitzsimmons came rom California and was expected to sail into the champion with the zest and abandon then considered a universal attribute of Westerners. But Jeffries moved cautiously in the ring until his ire was aroused, whereupon he would reate a thunderbolt with one of his big

The first of these titanic wallops was uncorked by the Californian in the sec-end round. It landed upon Fitzsim-mons jaw, and Fitzsimmons landed on the floor. He was up and doing in a jiffy, however, and continued his whirl-wind attack. The Californian was the bigger man and accepted all the punish-ment that the champion could inflict. Fitzsimmons became weary from his necessant though ineffective efforts, and in the tenth round Jeffries knocked him to the floor twice. In the next round the Californian landed a zipping drive over the champion's heart and followed it through with rights and lefts to the Jaw. These blows dazed Fitzsimmons, and Jeffries sent him down for the full with a crushing right-hand blow

They believe he has more up his sleeve than he is willing to let the world in general know about and that his somewhat listless attitude when boxing for newspaper men is but a ruse to conceal his real powers. While the French champion is not always listless before the critics, he has thus far refused to effectively demonstrate just how he is going to conduct his offensive campaign when he enters the ring with Dempsey.
